

GIVE HIM TIME FOR YOUR Full Bloom

WHAT FEELS LIKE A SEASON OF LOSS
IS OFTEN GOD MAKING ROOM
FOR GREATER FRUITFULNESS.

You may feel like you're in a season of loss, but what if God's goal is actually abundance?

Sometimes, what feels like loss is really the Lord making room for greater fruitfulness. God removes what hinders. He redirects what has drifted. He refines what is still forming.

Pruning can be painful. It can feel like rejection, abandonment, or even punishment—especially when God begins removing things, relationships, opportunities, and familiar places you thought would remain.

*But beloved, don't mistake
God's pruning for His rejection.*

The Gardener knows what He's doing. He sees the fruit you haven't produced yet. He knows what is draining your strength, what is competing with your growth, and what can no longer accompany you into your next season.

Even fruitful branches must be pruned so they can bear more fruit. Don't rush to replace everything God has removed. Don't cling to what He's asking you to release. And don't measure His love by what He allows to remain.

Pruning is not the absence of His love. Sometimes, it is the evidence of His intentional care.

Trust His hands, even when you don't understand His methods. Because what God is cultivating in you is greater than what He's cutting away.

Give Him time for your full bloom.

SCRIPTURE

"Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit."

JOHN 15:2 (KJV)

TRUTH TO HOLD ON TO

GOD REMOVES what hinders.

GOD REDIRECTS
what has drifted.

GOD REFINES
what is still forming.

REFLECTION

Am I grieving what God has removed so deeply that I'm overlooking what He's growing in me?

PRAYER

Lord, help me to trust Your pruning. Give me grace to release what You are removing, patience to endure the process, and faith to believe that You are preparing me for greater fruitfulness. Teach me to see Your hand of love, even in the seasons that feel like loss. In Jesus' name, Amen.
